

Space Marker

A new parking meter system is coming to Saint Paul!

New multi-space meter pay stations (pictured at right) will accept any of these convenient payment options:

- debit or credit cards
- quarters or dollar coins
- prepaid parking cards

Pay Station

To use the multi-space meters:

1. Park in a space marked with a numbered space marker where the old parking meter used to be.
  - Read the space marker and nearby signs. The space marker (shown to the left) gives information on parking bans, enforcement times, time limits, and other restrictions that may apply to your space.
2. Go to a nearby multi-space meter pay station.
  - Most are located in the middle of the block, and all are marked with a blue parking logo.
3. Follow the prompts given on the pay station display:
  - Enter your space number, then press Enter.
  - Pay for the amount of time you want to park for. Please note that time limits are set (and enforced) to provide convenient and available short-term parking to visitors to Saint Paul.
  - Press the green Print Receipt button to complete your transaction.
  - Keep your receipt! You do not need to display your receipt. Take it with you to remember your space number and the time of day when your meter will expire. If you are running late (and provided that you will not exceed the time limit for your space), you are permitted to add more time by re-entering your space number at any of the city's multi-space meter pay stations.

For more information on Saint Paul parking options and other parking laws, go to stpaul.gov/parking.